

DISCARD ALL BIDS CONSTRUCTION OF NEW HIGHWAYS

Bids Exceeded Amount of Cash Remaining on Hand

Bids were opened at the meeting of the county commissioners on Monday afternoon for the construction of the Palatka-Florahome-Melrose road, and all bids were rejected.

There were three bidders tendering offers for the work, and the twenty-two miles of road were divided into divisions one, two and three, for the greater convenience of the contractors. The mileage was segregated also in order that the commissioners could divide the award in case such action would have proved the more economical.

One bid was from the Bryson Construction company, of Jacksonville, but it was presented with various estimates as to the percentages of sand and clay to be used in surfacing after the rolling had been done. It was figured upon the basis of the per cent desired, but it proved a high bid.

Another bid was from A. E. Perry, of Montgomery, and totalized, according to the engineers' estimates, $77,092.55. This called for the desired various percentages of material, sand and clay, and called for a seven-inch surface after compression.

A third bid was from Noll & Noll, and the aggregate for the work on two of the sections reached the mark of $69,429.20.

There was a recess of a half hour while the engineer figured matters, and at the expiration of that time the report was that while the Perry bid was the lowest proposition it called for more than the funds on hand would pay, and was much in excess of the estimates that the official had made. There was a desire that there might be sealing in some one of the specifications, but the only place where there could be a cut was in the grading, and that would reduce the figures by only about $4,000, which would still be in excess of the fund remaining after the bridges and culverts had been settled for in accordance with the contract already under way.

Engineer Brunner felt confident that were the matter to be re-advertised there would be better bids made, while the contractor felt equally positive that as labor was now on the upward trend there would rather be an increase. He stated that with some ten million dollars in contracts for roads which were to be awarded within a few days labor would be in greater demand and would command still an increase over that made within a month.

After due consideration, during which G. C. Harby, one of the bond trustees of that district, was asked if it was his desire that the call for bids be re-advertised and he replied that it made very little difference to him, it was decided by the board that in order to carry out the will of those who had voted for the bonds the proper plan would be to again ask for bonds on the proposition.

This will be done at once—with a view of securing proffers at a figure which will come within the amount of funds remaining to the credit of the district.
